HDMS Announces Early Retiree Reinsurance Program

Health Data & Management Solutions, Inc. (HDMSSM) Announces Early Retiree Reinsurance Program (ERRPSM) as a solution for timely claims submissions to the federal government's temporary Early Retiree Reinsurance Program (ERRP).

The federal ERRP was established to help maintain retiree benefits at an affordable level, providing a bridge to 2014 when other reform provisions will be implemented. The government will reimburse eligible employment-based plans for part of the health care costs of early retirees.

The Program will reimburse eligible plans at 80 percent of certain costs for health benefit claims that exceed $15,000 a year for an individual early retiree or an early retiree's dependent, up to $90,000 for that member. For fully insured plans, reimbursements are based on claims paid, not premiums paid. The Program officially begins today, June 1, 2010 and ends on January 1, 2014 or when the allocated $5 billion in funding is exhausted, whichever occurs first.

HDMS ERRP will allow employers to take advantage of the program by enabling timely and accurate submission, which is critical to receive rebates before the funds are depleted in mid-2011 as forecast by experts.
